

A Musical Celebration of Cuba in America

*"Two big cultural streams flowing simultaneously ...ancient and experimental at the same time, and capacious enough to include more and more." -- Ben Ratliff, The New York Times

Renowned pianist and composer Michele Rosewoman presents New Yor-Uba: A Musical Celebration of Cuba in America, featuring fellow masters from the worlds of contemporary jazz and Cuban folkloric music. The name "New Yor-Uba" pays homage to the dynamic musical journey of ancient Yoruba culture from Nigeria, through Cuba to present day New York, reflecting its contemporary manifestations.

Brass, saxophones, and a rhythm section complement key Cuban elements including three bata and conga drummers, traditional vocals and dance. New Yor-Uba salutes the Orishas (Yoruban deities) in a contemporary jazz setting with a distinctive repertoire featuring Ms. Rosewoman's original compositions and visionary arrangements that incorporate a large spectrum of Cuban spiritually-based music, including, Yoruba (Nigeria), Arará (Dahomey), Abakuá (Calabar) and rumba/guaguanco, a uniquely Cuban musical form.

"New Yor-Uba, A Musical Celebration of Cuba in America" debuted in 1983 at Joseph Papp's Public Theater in New York City. The ensemble has performed at major festivals and venues throughout Europe and the United States and Ms. Rosewoman was among the first to bring an undiluted form of Cuban folklore into New York City jazz clubs. Celebrating 30 years, the ensemble's double disc release garnered the 2013 #1 NPR Latin Jazz Recording of the year award.

Now with a 35-year progression, New Yor-Uba's concept and sound remain uniquely vital as Rosewoman continues to enhance the ensemble's repertoire with new music and personnel, further inspiring her to reflect upon and explore the links between these deep musical traditions.

NEW WORK--NEW RELEASE

"The deepening of my approach, knowledge, and relationship to this profound tradition that I am so completely bound to, prepared me on multiple levels to manifest this extended and most challenging composition. I am very grateful to Chamber Music America for supporting my evolution," explains Ms. Rosewoman.

Ms. Rosewoman is a recipient of the 2015-16 Chamber Music America New jazz Works Commission. The resulting new work, "Oru de Oro", is a rhythmic suite anchored to a sacred sequence of rhythms known as the Oru Igbody, where 23 Orishas are endowed with Rosewoman's distinctive musical content while displaying and integrating the mastery of featured soloists and master drummers. Rosewoman built this piece on the foundation of the form, contours, and mastery of folklorist/percussionist Roman Diaz, who has been a foundational member of the ensemble since 2008. "Oru de Oro" was recorded in the studio in late 2017/18 along with other new repertoire and New Yor-Uba's new recording, "Hallowed", will be released on November 1st, 2019.

CRITICAL ACCLAIM

1983 Debut Performance

*"Ms. Rosewoman's music – dissonant melodies, brass chorales, chromatic ballads and orchestrated vamps for brasses, saxophones, and a jazz rhythm section, as the groove shifted from the flow of the Santeria chants to the swing of a jazz band – was jazz that didn't simply use Afro-Cuban rhythms as decoration, but layered melodies and rhythms with equal force and weight." The New York Times

*"New Yor-uba is soulful evidence that Rosewoman is on to something significant. The music was energetic, propulsive and especially noteworthy largely because it...fully integrated orchestrated brasses, saxophones, and a jazz back line, with traditional Yoruban chants sung to the heavy rhythmic accompaniment of congas and bata drums, ceremoniously arriving at sumptuous Ellington-like orchestrations..."Downbeat Magazine

2013 Critics Polls, Performance and CD Reviews

The September 2013 release of New Yor-Uba's debut CD marked the ensemble's 30-year anniversary and brought great acclaim and extensive press. The National Public Radio (NPR) Critics Poll elected the 2-CD as the #1 Latin Jazz Release of 2013 and #25 of Best Recordings of the Year. Other accolades include the Downbeat Critics Poll, #14 Best Release of the Year and the Jazz Times Critics Poll, #14 Best Releases of the Year and one of the best large ensembles of the year. The CD received a 4 1/2 star review in Downbeat among many other rave reviews and the New York Times lists the New Yor-Uba Dizzy's Lincoln Center CD release performance as one of the Best Concerts of the Year. Numerous featured stories included NPR Fresh

*"Two big cultural streams flowing simultaneously ...cultural multiplicity in sound taken to a reasonable extreme, where a song can still be allowed to sound logical and beautiful...ancient and experimental at the same time, and capacious enough to include more and more.." Ben Ratliff, The New York Times

*"Dazzling tracks...startling for its balance of unfettered improvisation and undiluted Cuban folklore within a complex and often grand structure...stylistic swagger and spiritual heft..." Larry Blumenfeld, The Wall Street Journal

*"Absolutely one of the most exceptional records of 2013 is pianist-composer Michele Rosewoman's 30th Anniversary New Yor-Uba release." Willard Jenkins, The Independent Ear

*Pianist Michele Rosewoman has created the masterpiece she's envisioned for 30 years, an extended loving and fully informed evocation....Two discs... and doubly rewarding." Howard Mandel, Jazz Journalists Association News

BACKGROUND

Ms. Rosewoman's life-long immersion in both traditions led to the formation of New Yor-Uba. Her interest in Cuban music was born in a home full of music and art. Exposed in her early years to a spectrum of great jazz traditions and to spiritually-based music from around the world, she began playing piano at age 6. In her late teens she began playing congas and percussion, studying African-based drum and vocal traditions, specifically Cuban and Haitian forms, with an emphasis on the ritualized, spiritual aspects of the music. These early explorations would profoundly impact Rosewoman's musical direction with a pervasive influence on the formation of her sound as a pianist and composer. She is credited as one of the first in bringing together Cuban Folkloric music with a thoroughly contemporary jazz concept for an uncompromised synthesis of these two profound musical idioms.

Upon coming to New York in 1978, Rosewoman continued to nurture her collaborative work with various jazz luminaries and also began playing with Cuban dance bands. She soon formed a most important association with the late Cuban master drummer/vocalist Orlando "Puntilla" Rios. A repository of tradition, he was both a mentor and a member of her New Yor-Uba ensemble for 25 years, until his passing in 2008.

Early support from the National Endowment for the Arts facilitated the premiere of Rosewoman's pioneering concept and -14-piece ensemble featuring Orlando 'Puntilla' Rios, at Joseph Papp's Public Theater in New York City. The ensemble's sold -out debut in 1983 signaled the emergence of an important new voice and received rave reviews in the New York Times and The Village Voice.

Ms. Rosewoman has performed with many Jazz and Latin greats including, in the Latin music genre, the late Celia Cruz, Paquito D'Rivera, Andy Gonzales, Roberto Borrell, Daniel Ponce, Chocolate, Nicky Marrero, Dave Valentin, Arturo O'Farrill and Puntilla's Nueva Generación, among many others.
